Common Responses to Trauma & Coping Strategies (Patti Levin, LICSW, Psy.D.)

Physical Reactions:

- Aches and pains like headaches, backaches and stomach aches
- Sudden sweating and/or heart palpitations
- Changes in sleep patterns, appetite, interest in sex
- Constipation or diarrhea
- Easily startled by noises or unexpected touch
- More susceptible to colds and illnesses
- Increased use of alcohol or drugs and/or overeating

Emotional Reactions:

- Shock and disbelief
- Fear and/or anxiety
- Grief, disorientation, denial
- Hyper-alertness or hypervigilance
- Irritability, restlessness, outbursts or anger or rage
- Emotional swings—like crying and then laughing
- Worrying or ruminating—intrusive thoughts of the trauma
- Nightmares
- Flashbacks—feeling like the trauma is happening now
- Feelings of helplessness, panic, feeling out of control
- Increased need to control everyday experiences
- Minimizing the experience
- Attempts to avoid anything associated with the trauma
- Tendency to isolate oneself
- Feelings of detachment
- Concern over burdening others with problems
- Emotional numbing or restricted range of feelings
- Difficulty trusting and/or feelings of betrayal
- Difficulty concentrating or remembering
- Feelings of self-blame or survivor's guilt
- Shame
- Diminished interest in everyday activities or depression
- Unpleasant past memories resurfacing
- Loss of a sense of order or fairness in the world
- Expectation of doom and fear of the future

Helpful Coping Strategies:

- Mobilize a support system and reach out—connect with others, especially those who may have shared the stressful event
- Talk about the traumatic event with empathic listeners
- Cry
- Hard exercise like jogging, aerobics, bicycling, walking
- Relaxation exercise like yoga, stretching, massage
- Humor
- Prayer and/or meditation; listening to relaxing guided imagery; progressive deep muscle relaxation
- Hot baths
- Music and art
- Maintain balanced diet and sleep cycle as much as possible
- Avoid over-using stimulants like caffeine, sugar or nicotine
- Commitment to something personally meaningful and important each day
- Hug those you love, pets included
- Eat warm turkey, boiled onions, baked potatoes, cream-based soups as these are tryptophane activators, which help you feel tired but good (like after Thanksgiving dinner)
- Proactive responses toward personal and community safety organize or do something socially active
- Write about your experience in detail—just for yourself or to share with others

People are usually surprised that reactions to trauma can last longer than they expected. It may take weeks, months and in some cases, many years to fully regain equilibrium. Many people will get through this period with the help and support of family and friends. However, sometimes family and friends may push people to "get over it" before they are ready. Let them know that such responses are not helpful for you right now, though you appreciate they are trying to help. Many people find that individual, group or family counseling are helpful, and in particular, EMDR (Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing) is a phenomenally rapid and wonderful therapeutic method. Either way, they key word is CONNECTION—ask for help, support, understanding and opportunities to talk.

The Chinese character for crisis is a combination of two words—danger and opportunity. People who fully engage in recovery from trauma discover unexpected benefits. As they gradually heal their wounds, survivors find that they are also developing inner strength, compassion for others, increasing self-awareness, and often the most surprising—a greater ability to experience joy and serenity than even before.
